Dress Code for Coming to Court

Appropriate attire is MANDATORY for any appearance in Court, as a participant or in a case, a witness, or an observer. This not only helps maintain decorum but shows respect for our nation's laws and courts.

As a general rule, you should think of the Courtroom as a formal environment. Dress as you would when going for an important job interview or to church. You will be REMOVED from the courtroom if you violate the Court dress code. Regardless of how you personally feel about the dress code, OBEY THE RULES.

Suggested guidelines

- MEN: wear shoes with socks; long pants (on pants with belt loops, wear a belt) collared shirts tucked in, with or without a jacket.
- WOMEN: wear shoes; a dress, skirt, or long pants; a blouse, sweater or casual dress skirt.
- Men and Women: Hair should be combed and pulled out of the face.

You will NOT be allowed to enter the Courtroom wearing the following inappropriate clothing:

- Shorts, mini skirts, or short dresses
- Hats, bandanas, hair curlers or sunglasses
- Halter or tube tops
- T-shirts or muscle shirts
- See-through tops
- Flip flops
- Clothing that exposes your midriff, cleavage, tattoos, or underwear
- Ripped, torn or cut off jeans
- Baggy pants that fall below your waist
- Facial piercings, plugs, or other inserts.
- Clothing that depicts or promotes violence, sex acts, illegal drugs use or profanity
